Now With F.M.L.

I think justice was served in the restoration of the name O. J. Thomas School to the interim or mid-school which has been called Cameron Junior High School.

And justice is neither conservative nor liberal.

NOW-NOW-NOW

As Folk Fete gets geared for the first full June weekend of 7-8-9, the German Folk Fete Dancers are scheduled to return to San Antonio for the third annual Texas Folklife Festival in September.

This unique gathering brings together 26 major ethnic groups in Texas in a four-day "block party", possibly the only one of its kind under state sponsorship.

We can be proud that Cameron is represented among the 126 Texas towns and cities on the program. If you look at amap of this enormous state, you will find more than 600 towns with newspapers, daily or non-daily, to give you some idea how many communities of 3,000 or more there are. And this does not include the dozens of sizeable suburban communities which have no identity.

It says something about the Folk Fete idea, which is strong at the state level.

If Cameron brings together its various groups strong in modernizing their origins, if Texas can present 26 basic ethnic groups, is there any reason someday this massive (by earth comparison), but infinitisimal (by universal comparison) globe cannot expend energies and not its people?

I am travelwise, but yet hopeful that such a day is possible, but even more important, inevitable for this intelligent bit of flotsam's survival.

NEEDS SOME HELP - Conditions at City Park are under scrutiny by the Arts and Service League and the Cameron City Council, and it looks pretty bad now. Benches and tables are rotted and falling apart, and the historic 82-year-old pavilion needs repairs. Funds for new tables, benches and grills have been voted by the city, and the league has purchased new playground equipment for small children.

Although he was a good swimmer, something went wrong and he went under. Efforts by his brother to rescue him failed, and his body was recovered later that evening.

Rogers Wants Tuition From Seaton Students

Seaton school district residents may face a rise in the district's tax rate if figures prposed by the Rogers school district for tuition are met by the Seaton school.

A town hall meeting will be held June 13 to explain the tuition charges and why taxes will have to be raised. Patrons will have to vote on whether to raise the tax rate to $1.50 per $100 valuation. Taxes now are at $1.10 per $100 valuation and cannot be raised above $1.25 without voter approval.

The Seaton board met with Rogers School Supt. Wayne Cornelius and Rogers school board president Darrell Henson and a difference arose during the meeting over the tuition charge that Rogers should levy.

Cornelius said the Rogers board had decided to charge tuition for all transfer students for the 1974-75 school year. The rates set were $149.59 per elementary student, $190 per junior high student and $240.01 for high school students.

Seaton students wanting to ride the bus will be charged an additional $56.27 each, Cornelius said.

He told the Seaton board the figures were based on the 1973-74 budget. The cnarges represent the difference between the total cost of educating each pupil and the amount of state funds alloted per pupil, he said.

Bell County School Supt. Connally Neal presented figures based on the audit of Rogers 1973-74 budget. Figuring on the average daily attendance, Neal said he arrived at a tuition charge of $260 per student.

According to Rogers' figures, Neal said that the 31 Seaton students would cost the Seaton district $296 each. That figure, which includes bus fare, is $36 per pupil more than the figure he arrived at, Neal said.

Henson said that the differences easily could be attributed to the 1973-74 budget being higher than last year's and the differing ways of figuring the charges, average costs compared to the elementary - junior high - high school breakdown.

Neal said that since the two figures were $36 apart, Seaton and Rogers might compromise on a figure of $278 per pupil. Cornelius and Henson said their board did not authorize them to bargain over the tuition charge.

The tuition charge will cost Seaton about $9,300 to transfer its 31 high school students to Rogers. The tuition, added to the local fund assignment, will put Seaton's 1974-75 budget about $5,000 in the red unless taxes are increased.

In a recent election, Seaton residents turned down a proposal which would have annexed the Seaton Common School District to the Rogers school district.

Motorists' Dream Car Gets Smaller

By Arthur Spiegelman

NEW YORK

Reuter -- Part of the pre-energy crisis American dream was to own a big car, a two-ton floating sofa with power brakes and steering and air conditioned so that the windows can be shut tight against the world outside.

The current American dream is to sell that car as soon as possible and buy something that doesn't guzzle gasoline at a rate of eight miles per gallon.

Months of persistent gasoline shortages have created a crisis of confidence for the American motorist in his car -- which previously he has been conditioned to look at as an extension of himself, his home and his self-image.

He has taken a close look at it, compared it to what the Europeans and the Japanese drive, and has found it wanting.

Now he thinks it is up to Detroit, which designed and built these gas guzzlers, to translate the motorist's new dream into reality.

The question is can Detroit, the world's largest maker of cars, meet these new realities of the market place or even, for some, can it recognize them.

Detroit says it is doing both.

Ford Motor Company President Lee Iacocca says the industry and especially his company is now engaged on the biggest peacetime plant conversion process in history.

More than one billion dollars is being spent converting -- the industry calls it "gutting" -- big cars plants from New Jersey to New Mexico so that they can now produce small cars.

In fact, Iacocca claims his company was planning to radically increase its small car production well before the energy crisis speeded up demand for small cars.

But critics say the crisis caught Detroit and especially General Motors, the largest car maker in the world, flat-footed.

The critics also voice loud doubt on whether the American car industry is capable of coming to grips with the problsm. Effort in sophisticated engineering or least not the way Europeans and Japanese car makers have.

These critics are quick to point to innovations which have been standard features in European cars and just recently have found their way into American-made autos.

Also while Europeans and the Japanese have spent their efforts in producing efficient, fast 4-cylinder engines, Detroit has depended on building bigger and bigger motors for greater power and greater gas consumption.

For example, the Mustang 11 and the Gremlin, both ranked highly by a respected U. S. consumer magazine are estimated to get 13 miles to the gallon in city-surburban driving, compared to 20 and better from several of their European rivals.

Detroit puts the blame for poor gasoline consumption on two factors -- government regulations affecting safety and pollution and the habits of the U. S. consumer.

Both, Detroit says, have added energy-consuming weight to the cars they make.

But critics blame the U. S. car makers and their conception of product for the problem.

Playing Catchup...

Modern law enforcement technic now ties city police and county sheriff's department and even marshals with the new radio network.

It has been a longtime coming. And this is among a number of modern devices and technology which would improve law enforcement in the Milam area.

Following completion of a new jail, law enforcement at all area levels should have the tools to deal with most every factor facing the modern law officer.

Additional training for constables and justices of the peace would be invaluable, along the lines of training given by the Department of Public Safety for local police and deputies in recent years. These offices should be made competent, or abolished.

Constant changes are developing in police technic, urged by the criminal division of the Central Texas Council of Governments.

Life And Light...

Monday night last week a practice session for the Folk Fete oompah band struck up some lively sounds which attracted several dozen listeners who were driving through mid-town at dusk.

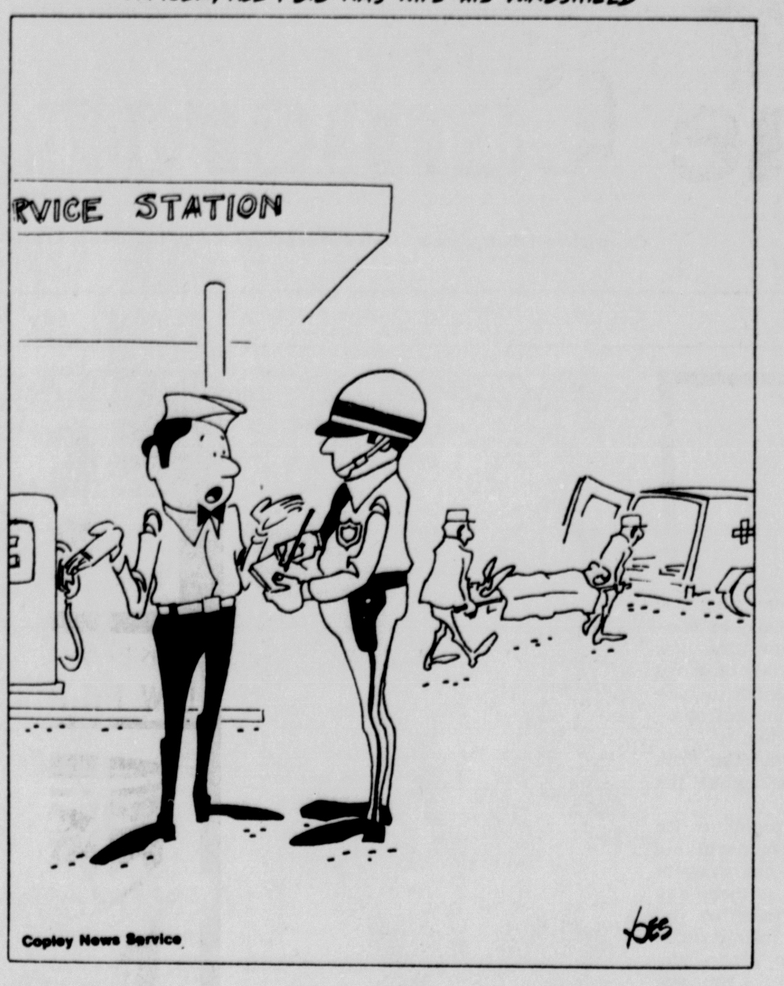

And Cameron Yoe High School band played its first Mall concert before several hundred people last Wednesday.

The sound could be enhanced directionally by having a band shell, large enough to turn the sound outward for better listening. But that is a refinement which may yet be met.

But in large part, the mall area is already being used well before official dedication in June, which time a major effort will be made to introduce Central Texans to the new Cameron downtown and throughout the community.

When the music makers gather on the Mall, it means downtown Cameron has indeed accomplished a major coup for central cities these days: life and light.

African Drought Moves Tribesmen

By Bernard Edinger

TAHOUA, Niger Reuter -- Primitive African tribesmen just barely out of the stone age are today being propelled into the 20th century as a result of a terrible drought searing the face of western Africa.

As water holes dry up and grazing lands turn into parched arid wastes, hundreds of thousands of nomadic herdsmen are heading for the towns where their only chance of survival lies in internationally distributed food supplies.

One such town is Tahoua, a sleepy desert prefecture in land-locked Niger where temperatures rise to a sizzling 140 degress farenheit and sand from the Sahara blows down the rough unpaved streets among low mud-walled houses.

For the desperate Borroro tribesmen who have gathered around the town in small makeshift huts and tents, Tahour is a stunning but terrible confusing experience.

Most have never seen a car in their lives. Until all their cows and goats died of hunger and thirst because of the drought, the Borroros lived in their ancestral ways as they endlessly moved from grazing ground to water hole, sometimes stopping for a -- to western eyes -- inexplicable tribal war fought fiercely with spears and razor-edged swords.

Their attachment to their ancient ways is still so deep rooted that many sell their government-distributed food supplies and go hungry hoping to save enough to buy a cow.

"A Borroro without a cow feels that he is not a man, that life is not worth living for," explains Tahoua Mayor Abdou Bacharou. Bacharou is a giant of a man whose dark face beams kindly under a colorful knitted cap as he escorts the visitor among the Borroro encampments around the town.

The main problem is when the Borroros arrive here. "They are so confused and so lost that many let themselves die. Of course, malnutrition and disease are the principal causes but it seems that many just die of sadness at their plight," he explains.

Bacharrou says: "On the ground just outside the camp sit two pitifully ragged bare-breasted women whose arms and legs are as thin as those of a baby. They are ill and have been left there to die. . . This is the terribly hard way of the bush. They are fed but must not die within the camp.

"If they die within the perimeter, then the Borroros move just as they do when, for some reason, they believe devils are around," he adds.

Bacharou explains, however, that a doctor from Tahoua will come to treat the two women who will hopefully survive and re-enter the tribal life.

Business Joining Debate Over National Insurance

This promises to be the year of the Great Debate in Congress over national health insurance. Thanks to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the business community will have a "voice" in the debate. Its own concept of a health insurance plan, developed by the National Chamber, has been introduced in the Congress.

In sponsoring the comprehensive plan, Sen. Paul J. Fannin (R-Ariz.) a member of the Senate Finance Committee, told his colleagues:

"As the nation's largest private purchaser of health care, business is legitimately concerned with how its dollars are spent. Last year alone business spent over $20 billion on health care.

"Because of this vast expenditure . . . business has a deep and abiding interest in the organization and delivery of health care in the United States."

The National Chamber -- thousands of whose members provide health benefits for employees - - developed its plan after a study and analysis spanning several years, which included the advice of top business, industry and health profession leaders. First of all, it requires employers to furnish health insurance subject to alth insurance subject to penalty. Secondly, it provides for a sharing of the costs, with neither employer or employee paying more than 50%. Thirdly, it provides for insurance pools enabling the self-employed and small employers to share in the economies of mass purchasing of health care. Another pool, in each state, would provide coverage for low-income individuals, with all or part of the cost paid by the federal government from general revenues.

If effective in fiscal 1975, it would increase costs about $2.7 billion divided equally by employer and employees. New outlays by the federal government would amount to $3.6 billion yearly.

It's no pie-in-the-sky scheme, such as one Senate proposal which would cost $60 billion a year more in federal taxes.

As he offered the Chamber measure, Sen. Fannin "welcomed" business into the debate and observed that most likely no single proposal would be enacted in its entirety and that the bill finally enacted would be an amalgamation of parts of the various proposals. Let the debate commence!

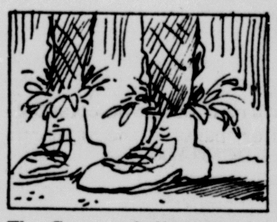

The United Steelworkers of America, a powerful, precedent - setting labor union, recently negotiated the first major company - paid pension program with built-in-escalators to compensate for living costs as they rise.

A new contract covering 52,000 aluminum workers' pensions was the first in a major private industry. Next came a similar agreement covering four major can companies with 37,700 worker.

Based on a query by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, however, it appears that federal workers beat the steelworkers to the precedent by nearly a decade. Automatic raising of pension benefits according to the cost of living has been a fixture in the U. S. Civil Service since 1965. More than 1.1 million federal retires and survivors of pensioners receive automatic boosts when there is a cumulative 3% rise in living costs.

Pensions are adjusted upward 4% in order to allow for a time lag.

The steelworkers escalator clause for pensions will be pased on the government's Consumer Price Index and will be computed at 65% of the annual average increase in the CPI.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

TAX CUT DEBATED— PRO AND CON

Rep. Robert N. C. Nix (Pa.) ". . . The administration's current economic policy seems to consist of maintaining restrictive fiscal and monetary policies to combat inflation, while hoping that the economic downturn takes care of itself. This policy offers cold comfort, indeed to the workingman trying to keep up with his bills, to the family unable to find decent housing it can afford, or to workers facing unemployment. . .

"I believe a tax cut is called for. Specifically, I endorse the concept of raising the personal exemption and providing for an optional tax credit. This proposal would pump several billion dollars into the economy. And the relief would go primarily to lower and middle income brackets — the people who have been hit the hardest by the recession-inflation crunch. . ."

Senator William Proxmire (Wis.) ". . . A tax cut now would be a tragic and foolish economic policy. Inflation is here. It is rampaging. It will probably get worse. This is the worst of all times to stimulate the economy through either a tax cut or a big increase in spending. As vice chairman of the Congressional Joint Economic Committee, I have listened to the administration and private economic experts on the subject. . .

"A number of union contracts have automatic escalation clauses. Industries controlled in the past will raise prices . . . For all these reasons a tax cut now would merely add fuel to the inflationary thrust . . . It is bad public policy. It is badly timed. I intend to fight it on the Senate floor. . .

"The blunderbuss of either annet tax cut — one not offset either by spending cuts or loophole closing — or a big increase in spending would promote economic disaster at this time. A tax cut now is a foolish policy. It should be defeated.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

A cut in the Federal income tax would fail to benefit those who need help the most; people too poor to be in a Federal income tax bracket. A reduction in the Federal gasoline tax and the State sales tax would directly benefit this group.

Flood warning!

In 1971, the high waters of Hurricane Fern brought widespread, costly destruction to the Gulf Coast.

In 1972, the most brutal storm in United States history lashed flood waters through six eastern states.

In 1973, surging waters from the accumulated runoff from thawing snows and spring rains inundated valuable farm lands in several southern states.

When or where the next flood will strike is anybody's guess. Are you protected?

Today, many Texas counties, cities, towns and villages are eligible for special flood insurance under the auspices of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the National Flood Insurers Association.

The rates have been lowered. The coverages have been increased.

There are different programs available for different areas. Protection is available for homeowners, for tenants, for owners of small businesses and for general property. To find out whether you are eligible for this special flood coverage—call any local agent, broker or company licensed to do business in your area.

Criswell Honored For 60 Years Of Ag Service

Cecil R. Criswell of Buckholts was honored and recognized for his 60 years of service and contributions to agriculture and marketing by the Buckholts Farmers Gin Co-op.

A special plaque was presented by the board of directors on behalf of the stockholders and members to Criswell.

In 1914, Batte's gin was run and operated by the late Dwight Henderson of Lubbock. Being a friend of the family he hired Cecil Criswell, at the age of 12 to run the sucker. His pay was $5 a day. This big pay check put Criswell in "high cotton". His off hours were spent as well as his money exploring the world with his friends who were unable to pay their way.

Criswell's father, the late Judge D. R. Criswell, warned his son and told him to save some of his money for clothes he would need for the next school term. This advice went in one ear and out the other. When school started Criswell was barefoot with tattered clothing and broke.

His father thought it was time he learned a lesson so out of necessity Criswell learned to patch his clothes and half sole his shoes. At Christmas when his older sisters returned home for the holidays from teaching school they were almost as embarrassed as Criswell to find him in this state of affairs. But when school started that January, Criswell was fully adorned in new clothes and shoes, paid for by his sisters hard earned money.

The great lesson in self discipline and thrift had made its mark and started Criswell on his way to a successful business career.

After a year or so he worked for the late Charlie Williams of the Bryant Station Community. He plowed, chopped and picked cotton. When gathering time came, he was back at the gin running the sucker.

By this time, Batte had become fond of Criswell and had him to ride with him to all the gins in this territory buying cotton seed for his cotton seed meal plant in Cameron. It wasn't long until Batte turned this job over to Criswell.

By now Criswell was self-supporting so he lost all interest in school. Having passed through the seventh grade and spending three months in the eighth, he graduated. He worked several years in the fall for Batte buying cotton seed and in between seasons, he became a salesman, first selling carbide lights in South Texas as and other places where there was no electricity -- and anyone needing a suit of clothes, Criswell had just the thing, or could get it for them. The next step was selling life insurance for The Southwestern Life Insurance Company of Dallas, then the Gulf Insurance Company of which he still is associated.

The summer of 1928 Criswell entered college for a course in cotton classing. After passing the 3 month course, he ventured out into the big field of buying and selling cotton which took him from the deep Valley of South Texas to the Plains of West Texas.

In the beginning of his cotton buying career there were too other buyers in Buckholts. The late V. A. Kubecka who later retired and moved to Cameron and Joe Slovacek. Criswell was associated with Slovacek for the first year and then started buying for himself.

His first office was a small room back of the old bank building and in 1939 his present office was built. At one time a Memphis, Tennessee firm classed out several thousand bales of West Texas cotton in his office because he happened to have the best lighting system in the country.

He became a member of The Texas Cotton Association and The American Cotton Shippers Association.

His hobbies have been fishing, hunting, playing games -- but most of all people. His love for people and their interests have enriched his life and given him the privelege and pleasure of sharing his knowledge and exchanging viewpoints on the happenings of the day or world affairs.

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN

One popular investment today, and periodically throughout the past, is fine jewelry. Gold jewelry, diamond rings, and other jewelry with precious metals and stones are being purchased in record amounts.

But it is often impossible for an inexperienced consumer to tell if a piece of jewelry or an uncut stone is what it is represented to be.

Reports from other states indicate there is a rash of deceptive practices in segments of today's jewelry market, although most jewelers are honest and depend on customer good will. Sometimes, however, even an unwary jewelry store owner may be "taken."

One report revealed that a jeweler who had been selling "amber beads" for years discovered when he had the beads tested that they were not amber at all. His foreign supplier had misled him.

Federal Trade Commission officials report that the problem is compounded by the fact that so few people who are taken advantage of by deceptive practices in the jewelry industry ever discover the deception and file complaints.

It is usually only when a person has a piece of jewelry appraised for insurance or when he tries to sell it that he becomes aware that he has been taken.

A diamond engagement ring is often the first piece of expensive jewelry many persons purchase. It's of great importance to select a highly reputable jeweler and to depend on his advice when picking a diamond, since for most couples an engagement ring is a major investment.

There are four things to consider when buying a diamond: carat, color, clarity, and cut. And there are two standards grading systems that classify diamonds by these four criteria. One system is used by the Gemological Society of America, the other by the American Gem Society.

Attorneys in our Consumer Protection Division learned of a consumer who brought a diamond from one jeweler, only to have another jeweler appraise the stone a few months later at about half of what he had paid for it.

To avoid such disappointment, have the jeweler indicate on the sales receipt the exact description of the diamond according to one of the two standards mentioned. The receipt should state which standard was used and should indicate precisely the diamond's carat size, clarity, color and cut.

"Carats" and "points" are terms of weight for diamonds. There are 100 points to a carat, so a quarter of a carat is written ".25." It takes 142 carats to make one ounce. The Federal Trade Commission standards require that there be no more than one half point variance from the exact weight in grading a diamond.

Drafting Course Open At Texas A&M

A structural drafting course that prepares students for construction drafting jobs starts June 3 at Texas A&M University.

The 11-week course is offered for students with or without prior drafting experience.

It is conducted by the Engineering Design Graphics Department in cooperation with the Texas Engineering Extension Service.

Course officials noted that architects, engineers, contractors and fabricators seek draftsmen. The summer-long program prepares young men and women for well-paid work in structural drafting and illustration.

Service League Brings New Look To Park

Cameron's City Park will have a new look this summer thanks to the efforts of Arts and Service League members.

Mrs. Ed Magre, outgoing League president, told members at their year-end luncheon meeting Thursday that spring-type riding play equipment had been purchased for the park at a cost of $500 and matching funds from the city would provide permanently installed aluminum picnic tables and benches for the park.

Mrs. Magre, who met with city officials recently, said city fathers had also agreed to call for bids to repair the historic pavilion at City Park.

Following the report, League members voted to alocate and additional $200 for landscaping improvements were proceeds from the League's 'Tasting Luncheon' last April. The League also sponsors the Children's Matinee Movies during the winter months and will sponsor an activity booth for young children at Folk Fete. Mrs. Paul Young is in charge of the Folk Fete project.

The luncheon meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Don Humble with Mrs. Dana Kestenbaum, Mrs. Paul Young and Mrs. Lonnie Dodd as co-hostesses.

Luncheon tables were centered with spring bouquets and a large arrangement of magnolias centered the serving table in the dining room.

Following the meeting Mrs. Maxie Morgan installed officers for the 1974-75 club year, presenting each with a yellow mum. Mrs. Monroe Fuchs was installed as president; Mrs. Paul Young, vice president; Mrs. Forrest Sapp recording secretary, Mrs. Griffin Barrett, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Donald Pimpler, treasurer.

Juarez - Tucker Recite Vows

Miss Connie Joyce Tucker and John Juarez were married in a traditional Spanish ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Baytown, with Msgr. Joseph P. O'Sullivan officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tucker of Baytown and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Walter Malone of Cameron. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Asuncion Juarez of Baytown.

The bride wore an ivory silk organza gown enhanced by Alencon lace etched in pearls. Matching lace edged the Watteau train. The cathedral length veil was held by a Juliet cap of Alencon lace and pearls. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

The bride's seventeen honor attendants, including Mrs. Olen McLerran of Cameron, wore fuchsia and pink silk organza gowns with empire waists. Miss Donna McLerran of Cameron was in the six-party court of honor which wore gowns of pink floral chiffon over peau de soie. They carried single long stemmed roses.

Junior bridesmaids were Kimberly Tucker and Bridgett Tucker, sisters of the bride. They wore gowns of green organza over peau de soie and carried nosegays of roses and carnations.

Flower girls were Stefanie Estrada, Mandy Young, Yvett Oviedo and Veronica Serrano. Ringbearer was Shane Dodson.

Among guests from Cameron were the bride's grandparents, the Olen McLerrans, Mr. and Mrs. Billy F. Dodson and Mr. and Mrs. Malcom Cass.

MRS. JOHN JUAREZ

Oriental Dinner For Garden Club

The Fleur de lis Garden Club completed their club year and installed new officers at an Oriental 'pot luck' dinner Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jim Camp.

Mrs. Ed Magre was installed as president by Mrs. John Homerstad, installing officer. Also installed were Mrs. Bill McCutchen, vice president, Mrs. Jim Camp, recording secretary, Mrs. Bobby Schiller, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Douglas Buck, treasurer, Mrs. Dan McDaniel, parliamentarian, Mrs. Frank Luecke, reporter and Mrs. Douglas Perrin, historian.

Highlights of the club year were reviewed by outgoing president, Mrs. Frank Luecke, including the Christmas flower show, therapy projects, co-hosting the Texas Garden Clubs District V meeting and a pilgrimage to the Japanese Gardens in Austin.

The Club voted to have an entry in the Folk Fete parade and Mrs. Dana Kesbenbaum was appointed Arrangements Chairman.

Decorations and menu for the supper followed an oriental theme and tables for four were centered with minature rickshaws filled with multi-colored pansies.

Hostesses were Mrs. Bobby Schiller, Mrs. Monroe Fuchs and Mrs. Camp.

Yoemen Hopes Dashed By Taylor Victory

The Taylor Ducks came out on top of the Yoemen Thursday night in a bid for the District 12-3A title, and walked away with the honor after a 3-1 win over the Yoemen.

Taylor won the series 2-1 and will advance into bi-district against District 11-3A winner Brenham. The winning Ducks are 21-5, while Cameron finished its season with a 14-8 record.

The Ducks three runs came in the ninth inning and Cameron got its run in the bottom of the ninth. Both teams had chances to win the game in the seventh.

In the Yoe half of the seventh, Barron reached third on a walk, a ground out and an error. George Whiteside then sent a drive deep to left-center and it seemed the Yoemen had won the game. But as Barron crossed the plate the third base umpire signaled that the center fielder made a running catch against the fence.

In the ninth Sapp singled, Jeff Smitherman got on base on an error and Sapp was given home as Brad Ross interfered with his base running.

Taylor started the ninth with one of the eight walks given up by Cameron's John Barron, who struck out 11 in nine innings of pitching.

Rick Bubenik scored from first on a sharp ground ball to third base and Ross ended up on second. Ross was doubled in with a line drive to right center field, and the final run was added as Valdez stole third and was awarded home. The plate umpire ruled Sapp blocked Valdez off third after Yoe catcher Gene Kopriva's throw into left field.

Tiger Squad Is Second In District

Coach Leo Stroman's Rockdale Tiger baseball squad wound up its season in a tie for second place in District 12-3A South Zone competition as a result of two wins over Georgetown and a loss to champion Taylor.

The Tigers held off a last inning Georgetown rally and downed the Eagles 6-5 in the opener of Tuesday's double header.

Larry Young was the Tiger pitcher, and after suffering 5 hits and 3 runs in the seventh inning, he fanned the final batter. Young totaled 9 strikeouts and 3 walks and gave up 10 hits.

Randy Backhaus fired a one-hitter to lead the Tigers to a 10-0 win over Georgetown in Tuesday's second game. He struck out 8 and allowed only one other Eagle to reach base.

Rockdale closed out its schedule with a 3-0 loss to the zone champion Taylor Ducks. The Duck's Tommy Kaspar, who delivered a big blow to Rockdale in their earlier meeting, stifled the Tigers on just three hits.

Randy Backhaus worked on the mound for Rockdale and tossed a 4-hitter, with 11 strikeouts and 3 bases on balls.

The Tigers finished in a tie for runner-up spot in the zone with Del Valle, posting a 4-3-1 record. Rockdale was 13-7-1 for the season.

Cow Chip Throwers Win Contest

The Stalag 13 chapter of Brothers of the Brush, a Rockdale High School chapter, dethroned the downtown Wild Bunch Chapter Friday in the weekly Cow Chip Throwing competition. Fred Cates, with a 113-foot toss, was the tope contestant and Paul Backhaus was second with a 97-foot throw. The Cow Chip Throwing competition is a weekly feature of the pre-Centennial Promenades and Kangaroo Kourts held each Friday. Asked what it takes to be a champion chip thrower, Cates answered: "Five miles of roadwork daily, a clothespin on the nose, and a bar of Lifebouy after the contest."

Lake Producing Big Bass

Lake Somerville produced some good times for the fishermen who made the journey last weekend. Jimmy Janac of Bryan caught a six pound bass on a T&T purple and white, and Bill Briley caught one weighing almost six pounds last Tuesday. Top of the Hill reports that the bass are moving out, with the bass being caught in both shallow and deep water. Previously, the majority of the bass were caught in the shallow water among the moss. Crappie are also being caught from the marinas.

Head Football Coach Resigns

Charles Matejowsky, head football coach and athletic director at Caldwell High School, has resigned to take a coaching position at Westlake High School in Austin. He will serve as first assistant to the school's head coach. Matejowsky led the Hornets to a 9-1 year, and a District 23AA co-championship with the Bastrop Bears.

Traveling Trophy Up For Grabs

Members of the Rockdale and Cameron Country Clubs will be battling it out for Milam County golf supremacy honors on the Rockdale course Saturday May 25 during the eighth consecutive Cam-Roc Day, according to 1974 chairman Hal Reagan.

Rockdale currently has possession of both the medalist and traveling team trophy after last year's victory and is looking for a repeat with returning medalist Jerry Haupt.

An intra-city match between the womenfolk is also scheduled but members have elected to play on the preceding Tuesday, May 21.

Some changes have been made for this year's extravaganza as individual prizes will go to both the madalist and low net linksters in the men's, women's and junior division, pitting the "young tigers" from junior high through college against each other.

Prizes have previously only gone to the medalist of the men's and women's division.

Besides golf tourney, Cam - Roc day will offer an array of other festivities intent on offering something for every member of the family from sunrise to well past midnight, Reagan said.

Included is a bridge tournament, Splash Day contests for the children, a barbecue and an informal dance featuring live music by Louie Steffek Band.

Tickets for the all-day affair are $3 per person ($1.75 for children under 12), and one ticket covers the total day's activities. Tickets can be purchased from a number of club members canvassing the area throughout the next couple of weeks.

"If, however, you haven't been contacted and would like to join the fun, just call either club for tickets or information," according to Reagan.

Llano County Yields Most Whitetails

Llano County once again yielded the most white-tailed deer during the 1973-74 hunting season, approximately 20,000 of the estimated 366,000 statewide kill.

Of the 20,000 deer taken in Llano County, an estimated 12,000 were bucks.

Following Llano were Mason with 14,600; Gillespie, 12,500; Kerr, 11, 912; and Uvalde, 10,700.

Source of the harvest figures is a computerized deer and turkey kill survey conducted by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

According to department wildlife official Ted Clark, some 38,600 questionnaires were sent to resident hunting license holders selected at random from throughout the state.

"This is the second year of the survey," said Clark. "Information from the hunters will help us project the total number of deer killed in the state and where they were killed.

"Such data will give some idea of the effectiveness of the hunting seasons and bag limits and how they should be modified in the future."

This year's survey also revealed that some 553,000 hunters participated in a whitetail hunt.

Another 102,000 hunters went turkey hunting and bagged an estimated 36,000 birds.

Hunter's Call For Help

Let's hope you don't need it, but just in case you do, we suggest you read this item—then clip it and tape it to your cartridge belt or box.

These are the hunter's signals for help:

1. Fire three shots at evenly spaced intervals.
2. If you fail to get a response, wait until the sun sets, then fire three more. Shots after sunset are sure to attract a game warden.
3. Then, light a small campfire and stay put until he arrives.

Toothpaste Handy Antiseptic

If you get a nasty cut while camping and have no antiseptic handy, smear on some of your toothpaste.

Most toothpastes contain high-powered germicides and they help lessen the danger of infection.

"WHAT IS TP&L DOING ABOUT THE ENERGY CRISIS?"

Texas Power & Light feels that you may want to know about what we're doing to protect you from a shortage of electricity.

All but one of our present operating plants were designed and built to utilize natural gas for electric power generation. Because of sharply rising cost and uncertain future supplies of gas, TP&L and some other southwestern companies are shifting to lignite—a form of soft coal—as a generating plant fuel. Coal is more economical to secure and more readily available.

Two lignite-fueled generating units are now supplying electricity to TP&L customers. Seven other units are presently under construction and an eighth unit will be started soon.

For the immediate future, TP&L is working to improve and assure its supply of natural gas for existing generating plants. We're participating in exploration and drilling for gas in East and West Texas and we're developing gas storage reservoirs in East Texas.

On a long-range basis, even all the new lignite-fueled plants the Company can build will not be sufficient to meet anticipated future electric needs of TP&L customers. So, in 1972, TP&L, Dallas Power & Light and Texas Electric Service announced plans to build a nuclear-fueled plant. The first unit of the plant is scheduled to begin operation in 1980 and the second in 1982.

Dealing with the energy crisis is difficult and costly. Lignite-fueled and nuclear-fueled plants cost several times more per-kilowatt to build than gas-fueled plants, but TP&L will continue doing what must be done to assure you a dependable supply of electricity in the years ahead.

WIND GUSTS

In a steady breeze, the familiar weathervane on a farmer's barn may not move for days. But a weathervane in most large cities today would probably spin off its pole. Tall buildings lining canyonlike streets deflect the wind and cause gusts to blow from several directions at once.

Commission Votes To Grant Airline Certificate

The Texas Aeronautics Commission voted 4-2 Monday (May 13) to grant a temporary certificate to Metroflight Airlines to serve a route between Tyler, Longview and the Dallas/Fort Worth Regional Airport.

The Commission had voted at its April 4 meeting to award the route to Metro, but petitions for rehearings were filed by Texas International, which presently serves the market, and Rio Airways.

At its Monday meeting, the Commission granted Rio and TI a motion to rehear the question based on questions raised at the previous meeting and on new information available since the opening of the D/FW Airport. A date for the rehearing has not been set. The temporary certificate granted to Metro may be revoked by the Commission at any time.

In another action, the Commissioners directed the staff to investigate reports that Jetstream commuter Airlines apparently intends to begin service between Waco and Dallas Love Field enroute to Oklahoma City.

The airline has not applied to the Commission for a certificate to serve this intrastate route. All intrastate air carriers are regulated by the Commission and must have its prior approval before beginning new service.

Upon a recommendation from Tex White of the Attorney General's Office, the Commission adopted a minute order restricting TAC - regulated carriers from furnishing any free or reduced - rate transportation to any public servant as the term is defined by state law.

Belton College Receives Grant

Mary Hardin-Baylor recently received a $12,000 grant from the Hoblitzelle Foundation of Dallas to be used for a professional study of the academic institutional programs and facilities at the college, said Dr. Bobby E. Parker, president.

The survey, Dr. Parker said, will be to determine the usefulness and adaptability of present programs and facilities to the changing needs of the college as it grows.
